

To all Persons Interested in the Georgia Missions Project:

Get ready 'cause here it comes!

We're planning and getting ready to conquer new territory at Grace Farm during the 2012 Georgia Missions Project (June 3-9). The project is designed for student missionaries who are seeking to play a vital role in advancing the property at Grace Farm and who are excited about growing in Christ while being molded by the experiences that a short term missions trip can provide. The Project is not for everyone. We do not promise comfort! We promise early wakeups (probably in weird ways), hard work, hot days, bugs, meaty chunks of God's Word, and the thrill and satisfaction of knowing at the end of the day that what we did was significant.

We ask that you pray and plan towards what God will do in your life and for others who will be impacted by your life as a result of the Lord's working through you. We ask you to send in your paperwork and raise your support as soon as possible, which helps us to solidify our group numbers early and plan our projects accurately. The support level is minimal for the Project. If you can raise more than the minimum it will be a great help to us as we purchase materials.

The support level this year remains at $185. This is important to help pay for some of the project materials and the colossal amount of food and Gatorade consumed. It also gives you the full missionary experience of trusting the Lord to supply for the mission He has called you to do. Hopefully, those who play a part in sending you to the Georgia Missions Project will be a base of people whom you stay in touch with during a lifetime of walking with the Lord and going for Him.

We have a "sample" support letter that can be mailed to potential supporters. Feel free to change the letter if you like. Or you may prefer to raise your funds in other creative ways. We are also sending out a list of things to bring. Get ready! Come on! There are mighty adventures waiting for you!

We can't wait,

Freddie and Janet
